

WHY MANUFACTURERS NEED THE RESEARCH & DEVELOPMENT TAX CREDIT

The below are a few examples of Qualified Research Activities. Do any of the below look familiar? You may be missing out on taking advantage of the credit!

- Developing new product applications
- Innovative product development using CAD tools
- Automating processes to reduce labor costs
- Designing innovative manufacturing equipment
- Writing programs (ie. CNC) to run production machinery
- Tooling and fixture design and development
- Designing and building new molds or dies
- Integrating new materials to improve product qualities
- Testing and attempting to utilize alternative materials

Does your company partake in any of the below Qualified Research Activities? To learn more, check out www.titanarmor.com.